In November 2018, the OCAP released a competitive Request for Applications to foster collaborative efforts among many organizations to reduce substance exposure to infants, strengthen supports for pregnant women with known histories of substance use, pregnant women with current substance use, mothers of substance-exposed infants, and their families, and mitigate negative outcomes associated with prenatal and perinatal substance use. The OCAP is pleased to announce that 10 proposals were chosen to receive the award of approximately $600,000 per organization, per year. The 10 organizations to be funded are: County of Stanislaus, Health Services Agency, Epiphany Early Intervention Project, Fighting Back Partnership, First 5 Humboldt, First 5 Yolo, Prototypes of HealthRIGHT 360, Roads Community Care Clinic, San Diego Indian Health Council, Shasta County Child Abuse Prevention Coordination Council, Tuolumne Department of Social Services.

The Road to Resilience programs will be funded through the federal Child Abuse Prevention Treatment Act funds. The funding cycle will begin on July 1, 2019 and may continue through June 30, 2022.
