Bob Segalman has profound cerebral palsy. He earned from the University of Wisconsin, a Ph.D. in social welfare and sociology in 1972 and an honorary doctorate of science degree in 2006. He worked as a social worker at Lanterman State Hospital in Pomona from 1972-1979. He later became a research analyst at the Bureau of Criminal Statistics in Sacramento from 1979-1993. He was also employed by the CA Department of Rehabilitation for nine years as a research analyst and disability advocate from 1993-1996 and 1998-2004. From 1996-1998, he was an outreach specialist for the CA Telephone Access Program. However, Bob is better known for being the Founder of Speech to Speech (STS) telephone relay service. STS is a free telephone access service that has allowed individuals with speech disabilities to effectively and independently communicate via phone. STS is available in the U.S. and four other countries.
